

Philam Life wins LOMA education award

Philam Life, the country's premier life insurance company, was recently honored with the 2017 Excellence in Education Award by Life Office Management Association (LOMA), for demonstrating exemplary performance in training insurance professionals. An organization with 1,200 member-companies, LOMA recognized the top 66 members for its 15th awards ceremony. For nearly a century, LOMA has been the trusted source of knowledge for the insurance industry as it provides globally-recognized educational resources and products geared towards talent development. The Excellence in Education Award is given to organizations that have performed outstandingly in LOMA's professional designation programs. To qualify for the award, the winning member-company must have completed a minimum of 50 designation program courses with exceptional percentage rates, and must have shown a growth in successful completions of 5% or more versus the previous calendar year. This recognition serves as a testament to Philam Life's long-standing commitment to people development.